Thought for the Week

Whatever you do, think not of yourself, but of God.

St. Vincent Ferrer

Reflection

Life's end may well come when one least expects it. All the more reason to live your daily life with a healthy and balanced on-going awareness of your own individual mortality. What we do in life and how we do it ought to be approached with that joyful expectancy and awareness. Imagine that the Divine Judge will only ask you at your Particular Judgement at the moment of death, "So, how did you do in life?" "Tell me about how you lived and thrived in the life I gave you!" "For what are you thankful?" This is fundamental eschatology. Imagine being at your death-moment and looking back over life to see how you did, and ask yourself how you would want to present it to God. Of what are you most proud and happy? What would you change if you could? Now's the time for just such imagination! Now is the time to change!

Intention of the Holy Father, Pope Francis for November

General Intention: That priests who experience difficulties may find comfort in their suffering, support in their doubts, and confirmation in their fidelity.

Mission Intention: That as fruit of the continental mission, Latin American churches may send missionaries to other churches.
